Notes References Category:Video game archiving softwareQ: pandas unique() problem: iterate through array values I'm trying to filter out data that already exists in my pandas dataframe. I thought the following would do the trick: df[df.username.unique()] But it didn't, it returned the following error: TypeError: 'Series' object is not callable How could I achieve this? A: You should use groupby and apply: df[df.groupby('username')['username'].apply(lambda x: ".join(set(x)))] Or using unique: df[df['username'].unique().apply(".join) A: Thanks for the answers! Here is an update for pandas 0.19.1: pandas==0.19.1 df[df.groupby('username') f678ea9f9e
